DESPERATE TIMES: Widespread Falling Away from God and Unawareness of Jesus' Imminent Return

What if I told you that tomorrow you and all those you know who are true believers in the Lord Jesus will just suddenly vanish from the earth? And what if I added that abject horrors await those left behind? What if I said that?

Except for one word above that is all true. The word is "tomorrow." I don't know exactly when this disappearance will happen, but I have it on high authority it will happen soon. Not like we humans who live on a straight time line, God operates with and in and above time. It is one of the parameters with which he works. And he is God. Jesus will come at the long appointed time. It will just happen. He can enter and leave time whenever he wishes.

But I have it on good authority that his coming will be very soon. It will be swift. No light surprise. And when he comes things will change. His coming could be tonight, or next year, or in a few years. But that is about the extent of the possible time period. You've seen me write about this and about what he said about the timing. Read the last newsletter and all the other writings.

I know all that because of his call on my life and what he has told me in the wee hours of mornings or when I am in prayer and communication with him at other times. And I know all that because of the many Bible prophecies of things to happen before his return that have been fulfilled and all he said recorded in scripture.

The prophecies have happened. You have no excuse not to know that as well, for I have sent you many many scriptures and newsletters to that point.

And now we are living in that dreadful last period of falling away. It is amazing is it not how many people now are wringing their hands and increasingly getting upset over events in America and elsewhere, not really having any understanding of the cause of the events and happenings.

For years mainstream Americans continued to work and struggle and pay the bills as the government in Washington moved ever farther away from what these Americans thought defined their country. So too the media and entertainment world moved away. And finally these people just couldn't stand it anymore, and we are witnesses to that as there is a real true revolution underway in this country against the politicians and government leaders and the two major parties. That is the explanation for the wild ride we have seen through the primary season and the candidates coming out of that.

Most Americans have finally realized there is little difference between the two political parties and especially the political party establishments, and they want to clean house. They have clearly observed that changing party leadership in Congress from one party to another has resulted in no meaningful improvement in any way. Those inside the Washington beltway are shocked and bewildered and confused by the revolution underway, and let's just say they haven't a clue. (Now whether those in power will permit this so far peaceful revolution to continue is a question indeed.)

But then we believers have seen the changes, we have seen the morality of the nation whittled away step by step the last several years, in reality even longer. We have seen the government take formal actions opposed to the Bible and God's word. We have seen the government challenge God. And just go on. Consider just the approval of homosexual marriage last year followed by a rainbow colored celebration at the White House. Who considers homosexuality an abomination? God. Who invented the rainbow? God.

But these changes are not slowing down. Now we see what to believers is absolutely insane - a move by the government in effect to permit men in women's and girl's rest rooms and locker rooms and showers and whatever. It is just part of a steady effort to do away with gender entirely, ignoring that God made them man and woman, not the same being.

For years and years this pagan leadership group now in power in America and Europe has whittled away at Christian beliefs and values. They have no knowledge of the one true God, of Jesus Christ. And step by little step, for years unnoticed by the population as a whole, they have made increasing inroads, until unthinkable opinions and views have become the law of the land.

How long will it be before laws are passed, or executive directives issued, banning pastors from speaking out against homosexuality? That already is law in Canada. In The United Kingdom legislation is being considered that would require Christian schools to teach LGBT lifestyles as accepted lifestyles and to hand out condoms. So nuns will be distributing condoms under that. In Canada there is consideration of legislation making it punishable to speak against transgender lifestyle.

Are you all aware of just how far humanity has fallen, of just what the inroads are satan and his demons have made? I just read a report of men living as dogs in the United Kingdom. Evidently there are about 10,000 of these. These men work 9 to 5 like a normal person, but then at home and on the weekends put on a dog outfit and live like dogs. Some have handlers who care for them. One remarked it gives him freedom with no normal cares. They walk on all fours on a leash. This relationship with the handlers is just that, a dog with a handler. One comment reported was that such a person says he was born as a male human but identifies as a dog. Haven't we heard all this before in the transgender movement? This is nothing but demonic, but doubtless those around these people do not know that nor how to deal with it. Once in Africa many years ago the minister Derek Prince cast demons out of a crowd, and he reported how in the process people crawled on the ground like snakes to get to him. Whenever you hear anyone say he identifies as something other than what he was physically born as, you are dealing with the demonic.

Freedom of speech is eroding. Look at the universities in America, where some extreme almost crazy young people cannot stand to face any questioning of their beliefs or ideas. Universities have even set up rooms where these people can go assured there will be no challenges or criticism. Yet isn't that how people's views and ideas are developed? For these people no debating, no freedom of expressions. (I doubt any of them can be lawyers!). Who raised these people? What kind of parents? Well, maybe parents that shielded them from anything negative, who provided all they needed, who led them to believe they were indeed very special and great and now they are running into others and their ideas who do not agree.

And then there is the obvious horrible physical behavior of the muslim terrorist movement in the Middle East and throughout the world. That is an extreme horror, and to this date the US government refuses to call it muslim jihad, or muslim terror. This group is opposed to the West and to Christians to be sure, but also to anyone who believes differently than they, even other muslims. In the military our soldiers train but cannot use terms like muslim terrorists. But just who do they think they are fighting and being attacked by when they go into combat with them? It is a major move of fundamentalist islam. The leader of ISIS has stated a goal is for the world to be ruled by islam. It's very clear and simple. And folks, this is a physical manifestation of a spiritual war.

Then consider the astounding way the US (and European governments) has allowed untold numbers of unvetted and illegal immigrants into the country in contradiction to the nation's laws, possibly allowing in terrorists who would do harm. What is that all about? And what about all the implications? Obviously just part of the steady move to a one-world government, and breaking of national borders.

So many Americans have wondered what is going on with their government! What is happening? Well, your government does not know nor understand the Bible. There may be a few here or there in Congress who are believers, but the administration? The Cabinet departments?

It is one thing to call yourself a Christian. That is just a word. It is quite another to truly be a follower of Jesus Christ, to know him, to be born anew, to understand God's words, to be born of water and the Spirit using Jesus' words.

Also astounding is how very few of the pastors in the country speak and teach and preach about the imminent return and about the amazing immorality of government actions and society in general in recent years. Amazing.

So the leaders of the country do not know how close we are to the Lord's return. Neither do most of the population that is increasingly upset by current events and confused. Somehow we believers have to get the message out there. We have to. The television programs we broadcast for several years and still have on our web site, the newsletter and other publications we send out and post on the web site and my blog, the Twitter account where we post key points and links, and any times we speak or meet, this all helps. So do efforts of some others. I see that Anne Graham Lotz is speaking out very boldly about these last days, saying recently we are at the end of human history. Her very famous father and her own fame will help reach more with the news of the time we are living in. (By the way, we are at the end of this human age: Revelation 20 and Zechariah 14 show that humans will continue to live on earth for a thousand years after the seven year Tribulation.). But the majority of the population of the US and of the world does not know that the Lord Jesus is coming back to earth very very soon. And he is. Very very soon. It is a fact. It is undeniable.

Maybe I should close with a scripture I have found of great applicability to our times. Just the first part of II Corinthians 4:4:

The god of this world (i.e., satan, the devil) has blinded the minds of unbelievers.

It is the only good explanation for the behavior of so many today. May God have mercy on us, on the United States of America, and on all the people of the world.
